写作第一节:

One possible version:

Dear Tom,

Welcome to my city for a language training next week. I'd like to recommend an affordable and comfortable hotel named Tower Hotel to you.

Tower Hotel is an international hotel whose staff can communicate with foreign tourists fluently. The reason why I recommend you to choose the hotel is that it is well equipped. Not only is free WiFi available everywhere, but also a wake-up call service is provided. More importantly, located on a main road, the hotel is close to the Language Training Center.

I'll be more than happy if you find my recommendation of help. Wish you a pleasant stay in the city.

Yours,
Li Hua

Paragraph 1:

"Mama, will you teach me to weave?" asked Achenyo eagerly. Mama laughed. It was her wish to pass on the weaving trade to her daughter. But she was doubtful about the water hyacinth stalks. Achenyo showed Mama how difficult it was to break a stalk. "I'll teach you. But if it doesn't turn out right, I'll say I told you so." Achenyo was pleased. "Thank you, Mama!" They wove together every day after school. It was a tricky job. The stalks hurt Achenyo's palms, but she was determined to make something beautiful.

Paragraph 2:

One afternoon, Achenyo held up her finished work made from water hyacinths. "Mama, I've made a school bag to carry my books!" Mama looked over Achenyo's handiwork. It was neatly woven and well decorated. She clapped her hands in pleasure. Achenyo smiled, "I told you so, Mama!" And they also showed it to their neighbors. Inspired by the delicate school bag, they also began to use the stalks to make bags and baskets. By the end of the rainy season, the villagers were eager to go to the river every morning to harvest water hyacinths. They no longer thought of the plant as an invader, but a provider.

W: Good afternoon, Suzhou Trading Co., Ltd.

Text 5

W: Have you had any illness or accident before?

M: What sort of thing could I do?

W: Well, we need help with the library. We borrow books from the city library. So, one thing you could do is get involved in collecting them.

W: Another thing is the records that we keep of the books we're given. (15) It would be very useful to have another person to help keep the records up to date.

M: Right. I can do that. Do you run a lunch club in the community for elderly people?

W: Yes, we have a very successful club.

M: I could help with transport, if that's of any use.

W: That'll be nice. (16) People come to the club from neighboring communities, and we're always in need of more drivers.

M: What about help for individual residents? Do you arrange that at all?
